DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed 1/20/2004 has been considered, the lined through references are not in English and the statement fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language.

One reference has not been considered because a date has not been provided.

Priority

The status of 09/879,293 should be updated in the first line of the specification.

It is unclear which application is claiming priority to the recited provisional applications because they appear to have been abandoned before the filing of this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-15, 19-23 and 27-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Spence et al (6,019,722 hereinafter Spence) in view of Hamilton et al (5,885,271 hereinafter Hamilton).

Claims 10, 19 and 27 - Spence teaches a suction pad as shown in Figure 3. The at least three outwardly extending legs are -80- and -84- which flex to the desired position, column 9 lines 41-48. Elements -82- and -86- form a flange along the legs that seals as claimed. Element -62- is a vacuum passageway. However it is not disclosed if the flange deforms during sealing, no specific material is set forth for the suction cups. Hamilton teaches silicone rubber suction cups in a heart immobilization device, column 10 lines 65 and 66. The exact material selected for suction pads is generally an obvious matter of design choice to practitioners in the medical arts. The selection of a particular material, silicone rubber of any suction pad is of no patentable significance. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the medical arts at the time the invention was made to select any known material such as silicone rubber for the suction pad of Spence as set forth in Hamilton.

Claim 11 - element -68- forms a central portion from which the legs extend.

Claims 12 and 20 - the device is insertable through a small incision between the ribs as shown in Figure 9.

Claims 13, 21, 28 and 29 - in figure 3 orifices are shown on elements -82- and -86- with ribs between some of the orifice.

Claims 14, 15, 22, 23, 30 and 31 - a mesh is set forth in column 11 lines 5-7 of Spence. It is the examiner's position that at least metallic mesh are old and well known in the medical arts and therefore is taking official notice of such.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-34 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-5, 9-12, 15-31 and 33 of U.S. Patent No. 6,676,597. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the differences are obvious modifications to the scope of the claims.

Claims 1-34 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-41 of copending Application No. 10/654,040. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the differences are obvious modifications in the scope of the claims.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
